DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1, 2, 7, 10, 12-14, 18, 21, 23-25, 29, 32, 34-436 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Dobson et al (2005/0003966).

The applied reference has a common inventor with the instant application.

Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

Dobson teaches a well drilling and treatment composition which comprises a biopolymer, magnesia and starch fluid loss agent within the scope of the present invention (see the claims).

Art Unit: 1712

3. Applicant's amendment has distinguished over Chang, which fails to teach a starch, and Cowan, in the which the PERMOLOSE starches taught are regular starch or carboxymethyl starch, and thus fall outside the scope of the crosslinked, partially hydrolyzed or depolymerized starches disclosed in the current claims. A new rejection is presented herein.
